

KUHIO AND A RENOMINATION

SAYS HE DOES NOT SEEK IT

SAYS THAT HE IS NOT AFTER THE NOMINATION BUT WOULD SUPPORT A. G. M. ROBERTSON SHOULD THE LATTER SECURE IT—DOES NOT BELIEVE THAT GOVERNOR CARTER IS AFTER THE POSITION AT ALL—LEAVES TOMORROW FOR THE COAST.

Delegate Kuhio Kalaniana'ole returned from Hawaii this morning and is off for Washington, D. C., tomorrow on the Canadian-Australian liner Aorangi via Vancouver, B. C., and the Canadian Pacific.

"Politics?" he said, when seen out at his Waikiki residence at noon today. "Why I haven't done much in the political line for many a week past. I've been shooting and fishing and riding and that's about all. Yes, incidentally I have gained a pound or two in weight."

"What about aspirants for the delegateship? You people down here must know more about that than I do. I have seen occasional references to the matter in some papers and notice that Governor Carter is credited with a desire for the Republican nomination. I have not talked the matter over with him or with anyone else, but personally I do not think he would want it. My good friend Alex Robertson has also been credited with a desire for the nomination and I have no hesitation in saying that if he gets it he will have my heartiest support all the way through."

The delegate was asked if there was any truth in the story that he was coquetting with a view to still another re-nomination.

"I am not working for it at all," he replied. "Of course the date is quite a long way off yet but I am not after the nomination. By the way," he added, "Palmer Woods, the lonely Senator who represents the Democratic party in the Legislature, asked me the very same question by phone just before I left Hawaii. I think Palmer must have designs on the nomination himself from the Democratic end."

Delegate Kuhio is going through to Washington by the northern route as he wishes to get there in time for the opening of Congress on December 4, and the next ship for San Francisco would land him a trifle too late.
